SCISSORS

The scissors were broken. They were lying side by side on the library table. Later some one was coming to get them so as to mend them. But now they were just waiting. They had nothing to do, absolutely nothing. They couldn't even look forward to doing anything until they were mended.

"It serves us right, I suppose," said one half of the scissors.

"I suppose so," said the second half.

For convenience and ease we shall call them Scissors One and Scissors Two, although you will remember that they were each part of the same pair of scissors.

"But that doesn't make it any easier," said Scissors One.

"No," said Scissors Two, "not a bit."

"I don't know who started it," said Scissors One.

"We both seemed to begin it at the same time," said Scissors Two.

"Yes," said Scissors One, "and we each tried to be a little separate and different from each other and tried to show we could get along without each other."

"Now, here we are."

"Well," said Scissors Two, "no one could help but understand how it really is if they could see us."

"If they could see us lying here as helpless they would know, if they didn't anyway, that one part of the scissors is just as useful as the other part. They would know that both of us were needed if they did not know that anyway."

"Oh yes, there you boasted and said you were more important than I."

"And I boasted and said I was more important than you."

"Then we broke. We separated. And now neither of us can cut anything without the other."

"We are absolutely helpless and useless. We are entirely and completely idle."

"Nothing could be more idle than I am, nor than you are."

"We certainly show, as we lie here by each other, how much we need each other."

"Yes," said Scissors One, "and yet I said that I was the first to cut anything and that I was more important than you."

"I said I was sharper and that you were duller. But without you I am not able to do anything."

"Never did I feel so foolishly as I do now—a useless half of a pair of scissors."

"Certainly we were meant to be a pair," said Scissors Two, "and not separate articles. I suppose and hope they will come along soon and take us away and have us mended."

"It will be nice to be a real pair again, friendly and ready to work together."

"Never," said Scissors One, "will I boast again about being better than you."

"Never," said Scissors Two, "will I boast again about being better than you."

"I will, whenever I feel like boasting, think of this time," said Scissors One, "when I was lying here on the library table, quite, quite useless by myself."

"That is what I will remember if ever I start to boast in the future, or feel like boasting," said Scissors Two.

Then some one came along and took the two parts of the pair of scissors and said:

"Yes, these will have to be mended. As they are now they certainly are of no use!"

Finders Is Spenders

Lucella is a careless child, usually losing her penny before she can get to a candy store.

Moving her down the street one day, I asked, "Where are you going?"

"I've lost a penny and I'm going to the candy store."

Just then, Tommy, her brother, who was evidently trailing her, spoke up, "Go on, sister, I'm walking right behind you and finders is spenders this time."

Nasty Counters

"Why, Everett," exclaimed the mother of a bright five-year-old, "what are you doing with your shoes and stockings of this old morning?"

"Washing my hands," was the reply. "This book wants to know how many 5's there is, and I haven't got enough fingers, so I've got to count my toes, too."

GAS BUGGIES or HEM AND AMY—The Trail Gets Warm.

WHILE HEM AND HIS CASUAL FRIEND, MR. GULF, ARE RESTING SAFELY IN THE CUSTODY OF THE LOCAL LOCK-UP, THEIR WORRIED WIVES SPEND AN AGONIZING NIGHT FRANTICALLY SEARCHING FOR THEM.

OUR RECORDS DON'T SHOW ANY ACCIDENT CASES ADMITTED TO THE HOSPITAL. WE'VE HAD A FEW ALCOHOLICS... OH, HERE'S ONE... MAN WITH BROKEN LEGS, SCALP WOUND, FRACTURED RIBS, TEETH MISSING... OH, NO, I REMEMBER HIM. HE TRIED TO BEAT UP HIS WIFE.

WHAT'S THIS! AUTO ACCIDENT?

HLO, DOC. HIC... I RAPPED. HIC. ON THE... HIC. WRONG DOOR. ...HIC.

YES, THEY WERE IN A ROADSTER LIKE THIS. ONE MAN, MY HUSBAND, IS SLIGHTLY ROBUST, BUT VERY DISTINGUISHED LOOKING. THE OTHER ONE IS, OH, MEDIUM BUILD, WEARS GLASSES... RATHER CARELESS LOOKING.

THE FAT MAN WAS DRIVING. HE WORE ONE OF THOSE BOOKKEEPERS' VISORS. HIS HAIR STUCK OUT ALL OVER!

NOPE! DIDN'T NOTICE ANY SUCH OUTFIT. DID YOU TRY THE POLICE?

THAT SLEEPY SIMP WOULDN'T SEE A CIRCUS PARADE PASSING, IF THE CALLIOPE WASN'T PLAYING. BUT THAT HUNCH ABOUT THE POLICE IS WORTH TRYING.

THE POLICE!! WHY... YOU AREN'T GOING THERE, SURELY?

REASONABLE GOOD THINGS

The appropriate sauce to serve with fish, flesh or fowl, is very important. One or two on hand to serve with the various dishes will add variety.

Flemish Sauce (for Beef or Veal).—Cook one cupful of finely-cut carrot until tender, drain and reserve one-fourth cupful of the carrot water. Melt two table-spoonfuls of butter, add two of flour. When well-blended add the carrot, one table-spoonful of mixed pickle, one table-spoonful of finely minced parsley, one table-spoonful of grated horseradish, and salt and pepper to taste. Season with a dash of Worcestershire sauce.

Shrimp Sauce (for Fish).—Measure one-third of a cupful of butter and melt half of it, add three table-spoonfuls of flour and cook until smooth and well-blended; then add one pint of boiling water and cook until slightly thickened; when smooth add the remainder of the butter and stir until all is absorbed. Add one cupful of shrimps, two table-spoonfuls of lemon juice, one-half table-spoonful of salt, a few dashes of cayenne. Just before taking from the fire add a table-spoonful of Kitchen Bouquet.

Orange Whip.—Soak two table-spoonfuls of gelatin in one-half cupful of water for five minutes, add one cupful of boiling water, one-half cupful of sugar, and stir until all is dissolved. Add one and three-fourths cupfuls of orange juice, strain and cool when it begins to thicken, then beat until foamy; fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and beat lightly in orange shells placed in sherbet glasses. Garnish with a carefully peeled section of orange.

Peach Fritters.—Mix and sift one cupful of flour, two table-spoonfuls of baking powder, three table-spoonfuls of sugar, and one-fourth table-spoonful of salt. Add gradually one-third of a cupful of milk, one well-beaten egg and three peaches sliced in small pieces. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat and drain on brown paper. Roll in sugar and serve.

Two Negroes in Strand Ruction

David Cardon and William Templeton Arrested Monday by Officer Kereeman, One on Public Intoxication Charge and Other for Assault.

David Cardon, a 29 year old negro whose nickname is "Slick," and William Templeton, a 44 year old negro known as "Big Boy," were arrested Monday on the Strand near the coal office of Watts & Tammany by Officer Kereeman who charged Cardon with public intoxication and Templeton with assault in the third degree.

According to the officer, "Big Boy" had struck Cardon and was about to stab him in the back with a jack-knife he held in his hand when placed under arrest. Templeton entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was adjourned until Friday morning and bail fixed at $500.

Templeton said he was stopping at Jack's place at No. 16 Mill street. Cardon, who said he was also stopping at Jack's place, could not understand why he was arrested for public intoxication.

"I was pretty full," confessed Cardon. "I wasn't drunk, no sah," he informed Judge Shufeldt gravely. He continued, "Yes sah I could walk, 'Course I staggered a trifle, and was pretty full but I wasn't no public intoxication, no sah."

"The officer charged you with being drunk, is that so?" asked the judge.

"I was pretty full," confessed Cardon. Judge Shufeldt sentenced him to five days in jail and imposed a fine of $10.

State Platform Of Republicans

Deals With Practically Every State and National Issue of Importance—Brief Summary of Its Provisions.

The Republican party of New York state came out squarely for enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act at Monday night's session of its convention. It also urged full participation of the voters in the wet and dry referendum to be held on this fall.

In addition to the party's 1924 stand on prohibition and the referendum, the platform deals with practically all state and national issues of importance.

On state issues the platform carried out the Republican legislative programs of the past two sessions.

Of national legislation, it declared for:

Protection of the public in the event of future strikes in the coal industry.

Return of alien property to its rightful owners, the settlement of the just debts owed by our government to German citizens and the payment of American claimants.

Regulation of radio communication so as to eliminate the existing chaos.

Strengthening of our national banking and federal reserve system.

Amendment of our immigration law so as to reduce to a minimum the tragedy of divided families.

Prompt ratification of the French debt settlement.

Increase in the number of federal judges to meet the existing congestion of the calendars.

We condemn the Democrats of New York for opposing this measure during the last session of congress.

Adequate salaries for federal judges.

A change in the regulations relating to the importation of milk to make them comply with the same standards of quality and purity applied to domestic milk.

JUDGE HASBROUCK.

The nomination of Supreme Court Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck to succeed himself is a just tribute to an exceedingly competent judge, whose record on the bench has for fourteen years been satisfactory to lawyers and litigants. The judiciary should be non-partisan and it has been the custom to continue on the bench such judges as have proven competent and honest. Not only is this custom a reward for service and a tribute to the individual, but it is in the best interest of the public service that men of ripened experience should, so far as possible, administer the laws.

The fact that Judge Hasbrouck will reach the age limit and be automatically retired before the expiration of the full term of office furnishes no reason for not continuing him on the bench to the limit permitted by law. In fact it is an additional reason why he should be re-elected, as his comparatively inexperienced opponent has also reached an age that will prevent him from serving the full term.

REAL CHARITY VS. SLUSH.

In handling measures for the relief of the Florida disaster victims the Red Cross is right and has been right from the beginning in confining its requests for donations to cash. Anyone who will reason the matter out will realize this. The need was, and is, for immediate relief. This can be given only by sending in supplies from the market nearest the scene of action and need. With money at its disposal the Red Cross can not only save time but also save money by purchasing at the nearest point and at wholesale prices.

It was not the Red Cross, but a politician appointed would-be duplicator of Red Cross work who confused the matter by appealing for food and old clothes. The error was so flagrant that even Governor Smith's man saw it and within 12 hours after issuing the appeal was correcting himself. For the prompt change of front he deserves praise. Persons who are in error too seldom admit their mistakes and help to correct them.

For other reasons than those cited, the Red Cross was right in asking for cash only. Cash is tangible, of known value to both giver and receiver. Each knows exactly what has been done and the value of it and the donor has made a real donation, has shown real charity, and has the right to enjoy whatever joy comes to him as a reward for a good deed. Donations of goods are too apt to bring a satisfaction out of all proportion to the sacrifice made or the actual benefit conferred. Too many persons have treated themselves to a fine glow of self-approval of charity given when the only thing really done was to give the attic and the rag bag a needed clearing out, with very little benefit to the needy ones.

CONGRESSMAN PRATT.

Congressman Harcourt J. Pratt, re-nominated as this district's representative in the Republican primaries, will seek reelection on the basis of the record he established during his initial service in the House of Representatives in Washington in which he took his seat for the first time last December.

Elected to office by one of the largest majorities ever given a Congressional candidate in this district Congressman Pratt took up his duties in Washington in a session that ultimately proved to be one of the longest and most active since the days of the war. It began December 7 and did not cease its labors until July 3, last, setting up a new record in legislative accomplishment, and during that period Congressman Pratt maintained an attendance average better than 92 percent, not being absent on a single roll call of any importance.

Going to Washington as the spokesman of a district that in the main is agricultural, Congressman Pratt sought and gained a place on the major Committee on Agriculture, and holds the unique distinction of being New York State's only member of Congress on this committee. In addition this committee paid Congressman Pratt the honor of additional official duties, for agriculture presented one of the dominant problems of the session, and the committee sat continuously from January to June, many times in night sessions. As a member of this committee, this district's Representative was able to lend his influence to help effect passage of the cooperative marketing bill, the bill to regulate the importation of milk and cream and to promote agriculture in general, the bill to regulate shipment of fever-infected cattle and the great agricultural appropriation bill.

By his vote on the bills appropriating funds for the operation of government departments, Congressman Pratt upheld the Administration policy of economy. He also gave his support to the tax reduction bill, the outstanding piece of legislation of this Congress. At the same time, he maintained a liberal attitude toward war veterans in general, giving active support to measures increasing the pensions of Civil War and Spanish War veterans, their widows and the legislation amending and liberalizing the laws affecting World War veterans.

Other measures to which Congressman Pratt gave his active support include: Funding of the Italian and French debts, regulation of aircraft in commerce, Navy aircraft program, reduction and limitation of armaments, rivers and harbors bill (publicly announcing his support of the proposed All-American Canal), national bank bill, uniform bankruptcy bill, public buildings bill, national monument to colored veterans of the World War, radio bill and additional judges bill.

Congressman Pratt voted against gambling and lottery in the mails and three times voted against premature adjournment of Congress until pending legislation of importance had been considered.

From the moment of his election in the fall of 1924, Congressman Pratt has also rendered valuable service to individuals of this district, regardless of party, and his office in Washington and in the district at his home in Highland, has handled hundreds of cases of constituents.

A business man of many interests, Congressman Pratt has applied to his official duties those qualities by which he has achieved success in private life. He is also a former member of the New York State Assembly.

OVERWEIGHT AND HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

Our insurance companies are not so much worried about heart murmurs as they formerly were, but they are now making a real fight against overweight and high blood pressure.

They are trying to show their policyholders and prospective policyholders that overweight at middle age or past middle age, is really a dangerous condition, and should not be taken as natural or normal.

A deposit of fat throughout the body means a deposit of fat around the various organs, and this fat can actually interfere with such important organs as the heart and the liver.

Now, the heart maintains the circulation, and the liver is the most important organ from the food or fuel standpoint, so that any interference with these functions is a serious matter for the whole body.

As one can't work or exercise so much as they get older, their salvation lies in eating a little less.

And similarly high blood pressure is considered normal as middle or old age approaches. This likewise is a mistake.

Now there need be no worry about a blood pressure slightly above the average for the age. In fact it is really better to be slightly above the average than many points below, because a very low pressure means lowered vitality.

Your individual with the high pressure usually enjoys life. He eats and sleeps well, but is a little short on exercise.

The chap with low pressure is often of slim build, suffers with indigestion, and lacks energy or "pep" as it is now popularly called.

The whole point in the matter of blood pressure is to have your family doctor examine you. If it is a little high and it is just after a "full" meal, he'll tell you that you are all right, normal in fact.

If he finds it low after a full meal, he will advise a certain line of treatment for you.

If, of course, refer to cases where there is no heart or kidney condition with the high pressure, nor any tuberculosis nor malignant condition, with low pressure.

And the treatment in both cases will be along the one line, that is food.

Your high pressure man will be asked to fast one day a week, or a couple of days each month, whereas a low pressure man will be built up with good foods.

Overweight and real high blood pressure do not need to come if we care to combat them.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

Dr. Cadwallader Colden, Noted Scientist and Lieutenant Governor of New York, Died September 28, 1776.

Cadwallader Colden, physician, scientist and lieutenant governor, was born at Dunee, Scotland, February 17, 1688.

His father, Reverend Alexander Colden, prepared him for the University of Edinburgh, where he was graduated in 1706. He then spent three years in studying medicine and mathematics, and in 1708 came to this country and practiced successfully as a physician in Philadelphia until 1715.

Almost from the beginning of his career he was busied with original investigations in medicine and general science, and on visiting England in 1716, a paper of his "Animal Secretions" was read before the Royal Society by Dr. Hadley. Here he met many noted literary and scientific men.

He returned to Philadelphia late in 1716, but at the urgent request of his friend, Governor Robert Hunter, he settled in New York in 1718.

Here his notable qualities were quickly recognized by appointment to various public offices. In 1719, he became the first surveyor general of the colony, and master in chancery. Governor Burnet gave him a seat in the king's provincial council in 1720.

About 1755 he retired with his family to a tract of land, for which he had received a patent, about nine miles from Newburgh. Here, in the midst of a wilderness, exposed to the attacks of hostile Indians, he devoted himself to farming and to scientific experiments, without neglecting the duties of the surveyor general's office.

Colden was an earnest loyalist and advocate of the taxation of the colonies by the home government. He administered the affairs of the Province as president of the council in 1760, and in 1761 Lord Halifax, in return for his zeal for the crown, appointed him lieutenant governor. He held this office until his death, and was repeatedly placed at the head of affairs by the absence or death of the various governors.

Colden was acting governor when the paper intended for distribution under the Stamp-act arrived in New York, and it was put under his care in Port George, which stood on Battery Point. On the evening of November 1, 1765, "a torch-light procession," says Bancroft, "carrying a scaffold and two images, one of the governor and the other of the devil, came from the Fields, now the Park, down Broadway, to within eight or ten feet of the fort, knocked at its gate, broke open the governor's coach-house, took out his chariot, carried the images upon it through the town, and returned to burn them, before his eyes on the Bowling Green." He would have fired on the people, but was menaced with being hanged on a sign-post if he did so.

The next day he yielded, and consented to give the stamps into the custody of the New York common council. They were taken to the City Hall, and the municipal government then restored order. Colden's claim for indemnification was rejected by the Assembly in 1766.

Upon the death of Governor Sir Henry Moore in 1769, Colden again became acting-governor. During his incumbency of the office of governor Colden signed the charters of many well-known public or benevolent corporations.

In his scientific investigations he was exceedingly careful and painstaking, making many observations of importance. He took a special interest in botany, and was first to introduce the Linnaean system into America.

One of Colden's most constant correspondents was Benjamin Franklin. The two philosophers regularly communicated their discoveries to each other.

He early gave up the practice of medicine, but was always interested in it. Dr. Colden took an active part in founding the American Philosophical Society.

He published many important works, among which was a "History of the Five Indian Nations depending upon New York," calling attention to the relation of Indian affairs of commerce. He published many medical papers, and not a few historical manuscripts.

He married Alice Christie, of Kelso, Scotland. They were the parents of two sons: Alexander, who succeeded his father as surveyor-general, and David, also surveyor-general, physician and writer.

Dr. Colden died at his home on Long Island, September 28, 1776.

Parapets of cement grow even more than those constructed of brick. To allow for that, a joint is aimed out here and there. That could be seen on many railway stations and commercial bridges. Best For The Skin

Because it cleanses, invigorates and preserves the skin, scalp and hair. Used daily, assisted by Cuticura Ointment when required, it prevents pore-clogging, pimples, blackheads, and other annoying irritations.

Laun-Dry-Ette is the greatest LABOR SAVING washer made. It saves a woman over 45% of the labor she has to give when she uses the best wringer type washing machine.

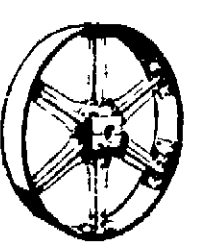

At the woman's option, Laun-Dry-Ette becomes the SPEEDIEST WASHER on the market. Counting washing speed properly, from clothes pile to clothes line, Laun-Dry-Ette will do a three-tub wash eighteen minutes FASTER than the fastest wringer type machine can do it!

Laun-Dry-Ette is durable. Hospitals, restaurants and similar professional and commercial users, have worked Laun-Dry-Ette every working day for periods ranging from six to ten years, without wearing the machine out! Laun-Dry-Ette does not "shake itself to pieces" because the revolutions of the drying basket set the WHOLE machine moving as a unit—as though it were all one solid piece of metal. When the entire machine—bolts, stays, tub, standard and all—moves in this way, nothing CAN wear out as a result of that motion.

Laun-Dry-Ette is SAFE. The most dangerous part of the old fashioned wringer type machine is eliminated entirely. Laun-Dry-Ette is WRINGERLESS. That means the woman, her maid, and her laundress are safe from pinched or mashed fingers, wrenched arms and so on. All working parts of Laun-Dry-Ette are enclosed, so that means any children playing close to the machine are safe. And finally, clothes and the buttons and hooks and fasteners on clothes are safe in Laun-Dry-Ette. The machine never tears a garment, breaks a button or smashes a fastener. It can't!

Laun-Dry-Ette is called the All Purpose washer because of these four points—its Labor Saving, its Speediness, its Durability and its unequalled Safety. Stress these points when you talk Laun-Dry-Ette to a washing machine prospect and you'll soon be making more sales!

Another Record For Babe Ruth

Babe Will Enter His Seventh World Series, Betting He Will—Other Records May Fall If Ruth Is on His Game.

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—Babe Ruth will break his first world series record by going out to the park and taking his place in the opening game if the big fellow retains a grip on his health and is able to play. He will enter his seventh world's series. No other player has played more than six.

Tied with Ruth up to this year at six participations in the baseball classic were J. Franklin Baker, Everett Scott, Eddie Collins and Wally Schang. Baker is farming and not interested in playing world series baseball. Scott, Collins and Schang can not better their records at the moment for the White Sox and Browns are not winning pennants this year.

The leading exponent of baseball bill played three world series under the colors of the Boston Red Sox and wielded his mace in as many series for the Yankees.

Other records may be expected to fall if the Babe is on his game. He will have to score more than eight runs to better one mark—for he is tied with Tommy Leach for the most runs scored in one series at eight.

Ruth is tied with Goose Goslin and Joe Harris of Washington for the most home runs in one series, three, and with Hooper of the Red Sox and Kauff of the Giants for two home runs in one game. Ruth smashed out his circuit blows in successive innings, October 11, 1923.

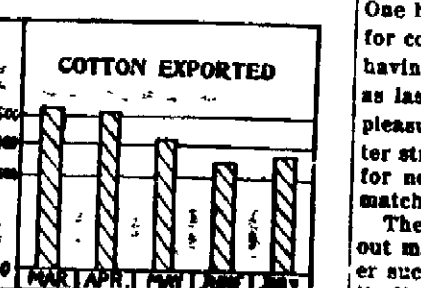

The Babe is tied with a number of fellow athletes, past and present, for the number of extra bases hit in a series, with five, but holds undisputed first place for the most extra bases on long hits, 15, compiled in 1918, 1921, 1922 and 1925 by four home runs, two triples and two doubles. He also has established a tie with Hooper and Kauff for the most extra bases on long hits in one game, six.

He was in a receptive mood for a record in 1923 when he was given eight bases on balls during the series. The versatile Ruth also has his name engraved in the department devoted to pitching records. He pitched 29 scoreless innings for the Red Sox in 1916 and 1918, going 13 innings the first year and 16 the second.

Ruth has a total of four world's series home runs against six for Goslin of the Washington Senators who hit three in 1924 and three more in 1925. Ruth will have to get three in the series to establish a new record.

Critical Period in Cotton.

Babson Park, Mass., Sept. 28.—(Special)—At this writing, it certainly looks as though there would be heavy supplies of cotton on hand in this country. The U. S. Government report of September 1, pointed to over 15 million bales. This represents the second consecutive large crop to which we must couple a carry-over substantially more than 4 million bales.

We sent a little more cotton out of the country to other countries during July than we did in June, but both months were far under the thousands of bales shipped during the earlier months of this year.

The market is weak, spot cotton now under 17 cents, the lowest price for the season. The price in a little over 24 years has dropped fully 64 per cent. What cotton will do depends on growing conditions. The final output will increase with favorable weather and drop quite a bit if conditions are like 1922 and 1923.

Students of long-range weather forecasting are emphatic about early frosts and detrimental weather. A sharp cut in output with consumption on the increase, would lay the foundation for higher cotton prices.

There is no doubt that the great price readjustment places cotton in a stronger position.

COATS ASSUME INDIVIDUALITY OF LINE, INSTEAD OF BEING THE STRAIGHT UP AND DOWN AFFAIRS OF PREVIOUS YEARS—THEY ARE TWO-FACED, TOO.

The position of the waist-line always a most agitating question, is again under spirited discussion. As usual, the girdle is having its ups and downs with perhaps a slight leaning toward a raised, or relatively raised, line—often merely a matter of suggestion instead of fact.

This interest in its position, coupled with the success of the blouse back-line, presupposes a distinct interest in belts. They are frequently the center of interest, with contrasting color, and are altogether worthy of the attention they attract.

One senses at the start of the season that coats are to take on form and trimming interest, and one is prepared for a new silhouette to which the collar-line contributes not a little. One has been prepared for some time for coats which are colorful, red ones having had some success as long ago as last winter. Now one looks with pleasure upon the idea of gayer winter street scenes and is even prepared for novelty furs which are dyed to match the coats they smartly trim.

The reversible coat has been tried out many times and now seems nearer success than ever, especially when its lining is of fur. Those who are insistent on warmth in a winter coat—and who is not?—may have a kasha or duvetyne lining, in lieu of fur. Velvet, as everyone knows, also may be used to good advantage, especially this season, when it is the acknowledged queen of fabrics.

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE ARTHUR LONGENDYKE

To the Editor of The Freeman:

Sir: Some months ago, about as spring was ending and summer arriving, you published a very valuable sketch of a well known citizen of Kingston who also had a residence in New York city, Joseph Drake. Many, like myself, active in one of the societies of the up-the-Hudson counties, had come into contact with Mr. Drake when, more than three years ago, he established, as publisher and editor, the Home County Magazine, a high class monthly devoted to the interests, events and personal affairs of those up-the-Hudson counties. His personal merits were many and we felt it to be a calamity when, taken suddenly ill, he was carried off, dying in the hospital at Kingston. Collector of this Port Eling told me he long had known Mr. Drake, counting him as a personal friend, and thus illustrates the breadth and high character of the man when it is recalled that he and the collector were on opposite sides politically, he a Democrat, the collector a leading Republican.

You published a most interesting and valuable sketch of Mr. Drake, and now that Arthur Longendyke, also a native of Ulster, but in business in New York city and living not far away, has been suddenly attacked and carried off, I ask a little space in which to speak of him. He was one of the bright young men of high character and ability that credit and honor any locality where they first saw the light of day and grew to manhood.

He came to the New York Stock Exchange as an employee thirteen years ago, and as he was a native of one of the up-river counties, (opposite my own Dutchess), we became acquainted, and friends. His rapid advancement evidenced his capacity for useful and efficient service. He rapidly acquired the confidence of Exchange officials, and became installed in a position of much responsibility, secretary of the business corporation of the Exchange. He was a married man—his wife, daughter of 17 and son of about 12 surviving him. He had acquired a home, in a little northern New Jersey suburban town; was active in his church and in his lodge, and the fact that the funeral services at the suburban church were crowded was proof of his popularity and the high esteem in which his community held him. The untimely taking off of one so active and so meritorious as a citizen but emphasizes the grievousness of the loss. It is difficult for one, whatever his faith in the order of nature to reconcile himself to these unaccountable, wholly unanticipated attacks of diseases that in a few hours prove fatal and carry off our bravest and best.

To those of us who have passed the three score and ten limit, and who incline to look upon the natives of our Hudson river counties who are forty or under as boys, it is especially difficult to reconcile ourselves to such depletions of our county society ranks. As a boy, Mr. Longendyke had grown up in the shadow of the Overlook, and, looking north, into Greene county towards Pateroville and the Catskills, saw a charming, picturesque region, calculated to inspire him with an affection for the place of his nativity, to which he must have been delighted to return on an occasional visit. All the historical associations of the Hudson river valley should have impressed him, and heightened his love for in our talks about it that is the way it seemed to me.

During the past summer he had visited California; and his visit there and to Smiley Park, New Redlands, had broadened his view of things. We (the Bishop family) also had made a visit to the Pacific Coast of some weeks, and we were able to talk sympathetically of that far western land. Having known him and been aware of his high character, I comprehend the inadequacy of any expressions of sympathy for those who survive him. We feel there can be no reconciliation with the fortune or the fate that assailed the stricken survivors but with them every possible consolation. His discharge of every duty inspired confidence and it was felt that any entrusted to him would be well performed.

The funeral was in his native Ulster.

Rolls Up Like a Ball

A queer little animal from Australia is known as the echidna. Scientists claim that this curious creature is a link between the birds and true mammals. As an anteater it is a fine specimen of a porcupine, being completely covered with a coat of large spines, which serve as an armor.

When the echidna is attacked where digging is impossible, it immediately tucks in its head and feet and rolls itself into a ball. If the ground is soft the echidna disappears rapidly and suddenly.

First Tea in Europe

Though reports of tea as a Chinese beverage had been received from Portuguese sources as early as 1517, the credit for its introduction from China into Europe belongs to the Dutch East India company, which imported a few pounds into Holland in 1610, and into England in 1640, says the Newark News. Apparently it was not until 1660 that the English East India company brought its first consignment, two caskets, weighing in all 145 pounds, from Bantam.

Lift that "YELLOW MASK"

HOW hard you strive for beautiful white teeth. You have used dentifrice after dentifrice. You brush hard and often—yet the veil of yellow remains. Why doesn't this yellowing thing disappear? Why can't you have gleaming white teeth?

Here's the answer. In your saliva is a "liquid cement" called Calculus. It glues to your teeth and hardens into a glassy mask. Worse still, it is an absorbent, draws in coffee, tea and tobacco stains like an absorbing blotter. These give this clinging Calculus that yellowish hue.

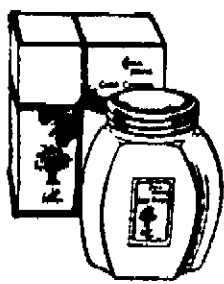

Now there is one valuable substance that will remove that mask and give you teeth like polished ivory. Your dentist uses it for cleaning teeth. That substance is "Tri-Calcium Phosphate," a non-gritty, non-scratching ingredient. It is a veritable miracle worker.

For the first time in dental history this marvelous substance is available in a tasty, pleasant toothpaste—ORPHOS! That means that you can now erase that defiling yellow mask. And have always gleaming white teeth you adore—and others admire. Offer in one application! In beauty's interest, make this test. Use the coupon below. Get a FREE "Convince Yourself" Tube. The various artists for the concert to be given at the High School Auditorium under the auspices of the Ulster County Music Association this season are as follows: Mayer and Pattison, two-piano artists, Wednesday, November 18; Maria Kurenko, Russian Coloratura Soprano, December 17; Eishueo Trio (Strings) February 18; Cecelia Hansen, violinist, March 25. It will be a help to the committee having the concert in charge if subscribers will be prompt in sending in the full amount of their subscriptions, as Harry P. Dodge is about ready to send out the tickets. Checks should be made payable to Harry P. Dodge, secretary of the Ulster County Musical Association, Kingston, N. Y.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

No static, comparatively little looping and good volume combined to make radio enjoyable last night. The only real pest was a guttural sound at 7:20, caused by some local leak.

"Pioneer," the Tribune radio man, must have been sought by many, as the chorus of faint canary birds singing that accompanied him proved.

A new station, not newly established, but newly heard, was WDR. 267.7 meters, 100 watts, at New Haven, Conn.

Florida was represented by WJAX and WIOD.

The Incurable Radio Golfer's score last night was 42 stations, which is pretty high considering that he did not have Chicago to draw on.

WBZ will broadcast football games in October and November, and will also broadcast Boston Symphony Orchestra concerts. In the concert broadcasts, beginning October 9, WGY and WJZ will participate.

Next Teatime Time at Station KDKA, Pittsburgh, Pa., is Friday, October 8th, from 9 until 10 p. m. The program will be called musical comedy. Radio fans will be let in on some of the methods of musical comedy production and truth and humor will go hand in hand in its presentation.

Ellenville Community House at Modena

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Hasbrouck Present Village With Modern Structure to be Known as Hasbrouck Memorial Hall—Will be Dedicated October 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Hasbrouck of Modena for a number of years have had the desire to do something worth while for their home town, and the desire has crystallized into the erection of a modern community house, to be known as the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, which will be dedicated on October 5. A three days' celebration will mark the formal opening of the community house.

The new building is located on the south side of the Modena-Clintondale road near the Methodist Church. It is of practically fireproof construction. The exterior is of concrete and hollow tile stucco. The roof is of copper and the basement floor of concrete. The window sashes are of steel.

The building is 81 feet long and 32 feet wide and consists of a basement and upper floor.

In the basement are located, kitchen, serving room and dining room. The kitchen is splendidly equipped, an electric pump supplies running water. There is a double range, sinks and all necessary utensils. The serving room has all the conveniences for serving a meal to many in a handy manner. Cupboards, shelves, tables and sink are here. The dining room is spacious and in it tables to seat 180 persons at one time can be arranged.

The upper story, which is 15 feet high, contains auditorium where over three hundred may be seated. Also here are moving picture booth (fireproof), ticket booth and stage. So provision is made for entertainment of any kind which it may be desired to give.

Hasbrouck Memorial Hall will be used to further the best interests of the community. The board of control consists of the Official Members of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Modena.

In presenting Hasbrouck Memorial Hall to Modena, Mr. Hasbrouck has been following in the footsteps of his forebears, who are of Huguenot stock; religiously progressive in their day and generation. Mr. Hasbrouck's grandfather gave the land upon which the Guilford Reformed Church stood until the time it was burned.

His father and mother for many years were connected with the Methodist Episcopal Church at Modena. Now as a memorial to the former's father and mother and the Huguenot stock from which he sprung the gift is made by Mr. and Mrs. Hasbrouck to Modena. It is free of all encumbrances.

On Tuesday evening, October 5th, the hall will be dedicated. The program will commence at 7:30 o'clock and includes music and several short addresses by former pastors of the Modena Church. Rev. J. J. Henry, D. D., will make the dedicatory address. Refreshments will be served.

On Wednesday evening from 6 to 9 a roast beef supper will be served at a nominal price. The menu is a delicious one and will be served in an appetizing manner. Music during the evening will be furnished through the courtesy of John Schoonmaker & Son of Newburgh.

Thursday night at 7:30 there will be moving pictures in the hall. The feature selected is Harold Lloyd in his latest comedy "For Heaven's Sake". Everyone is invited to participate in any or all of these events and to enjoy the programs of the three evenings.

Full of grim humor was the will of a French lawyer, who left 10,000 francs to a female student as a mark of recognition to those clients who had been good enough to engage his services. A thousand pounds each was the legacy left by a tumbler to his hospital ward and cost, for their respective kindness in driving a plank meeting from the feet of his bed and taking secret notes out of his camp.

On Wednesday evening from 6 to 9 a roast beef supper will be served at a nominal price. The menu is a delicious one and will be served in an appetizing manner. Music during the evening will be furnished through the courtesy of John Schoonmaker & Son of Newburgh.

Thursday night at 7:30 there will be moving pictures in the hall. The feature selected is Harold Lloyd in his latest comedy "For Heaven's Sake". Everyone is invited to participate in any or all of these events and to enjoy the programs of the three evenings.

Homer in Will
Full of grim humor was the will of a French lawyer, who left 10,000 francs to a female student as a mark of recognition to those clients who had been good enough to engage his services. A thousand pounds each was the legacy left by a tumbler to his hospital ward and cost, for their respective kindness in driving a plank meeting from the feet of his bed and taking secret notes out of his camp.

Electric Cords
Don't let the electric cord rub unnecessarily. By rubbing it against friction with the sharp tips, or lugs, the center of woodwork and other anything which will abrade the insulation fabric. Unnecessary rubbing is second only to unnecessary lighting as a cause of appliance cord trouble. And the latter, in large numbers, are preventable.

Read Signs Old Men
Good signs date back to the early history of the world. Many monuments have been inscribed by archeological expeditions in Crete, Asia Minor and the Greek Peloponnese which show that the directional signs were in use even in the time of the legendary heroes of the Hellenic world. In the Roman forum is still preserved the "tabula miliaria," a pillar which was erected by Augustus, on which were carved the names of roads together with distances from Rome.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—Heavy buying of half a dozen high grade industrial stocks turned the course of prices upward in today's market after an early period of irregularity. Bear traders endeavored to unsettle the general list but they made little headway and rushed to cover when large buying orders appeared in United States Steel common, American Smelting, General Motors and Dupont.

Steel again crossed 150. General Motors was marked up to 161 1/2, a new record high for the present issue, before the end of the third hour. American Smelting rallied five points from yesterday's low on reports that the directors would either increase the regular dividend from $7 to $8 or declare an extra dividend at next week's meeting. Allied Chemical sold down when only the regular dividend was declared but rallied later. Dupont soared nearly ten points to a new record high around $35.

The brisk manner in which several stocks rallied indicated the presence of a large short interest. Special buying took place in such issues as Commercial Solvents B., South Porto Rican Sugar, Air Reduction, Congress Clear, and Cudahy Packing, all of which sold 2 1/2 or more points above yesterday's final quotations.

Rails were firm, but quiet. The unusually favorable character of August earnings statements has stimulated an investment demand for these shares.

Quotations given by C. D. Halsey & Co., 27 William street, New York city, branch office, Warren Buildings, 560-63 Fair street, Kingston, N. Y.

Troopers Capture Sawkill Wild Man

Jake McGuire Carried Axe and Terrorized Various Residents—Evaded Officers Through His Knowledge of the Country—Held for Trial.

Jake McGuire, 55 years old, went on a rampage in the village of Sawkill on Monday but was captured this morning at about 9 o'clock by Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Coons who were accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Seth Jocelyn and a posse. He was placed in jail to await trial which is set for the first of October. He is being held on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Sheriff Wells received word on Monday that McGuire had gone on a rampage and was prowling about the town, totting an axe and threatening women. The temporary wild man had a reputation of being an accomplished self defender and none of the neighbors dared to touch him. In one case he drove a woman into her house while her husband looked on in a helpless situation and it was only after some difficulty that he was quieted.

McGuire then started off for the woods as he anticipated the arrival of authorities and he had the neighborhood from Sawkill to Rhy in a fear-stricken mood. The fact that he remained so long without being captured is due to his first-hand knowledge of the wilderness in the section and the sheriff's posse and troopers proceeded with the search even in the heavy downpour of rain on Monday evening.

It was only after being shot at several times by Sergeant Cunningham that the "wild man" surrendered. At the time of his capture he was in a small tent in the rear of his home.

Yanks Outfield Heavier Hitters

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—Ruth's huge bulk tips the scales in favor of the New York Yankees as the strength of the outfield to play in the world series is weighed. St. Louis has no Ruth. The Yankee slugger, with 47 home runs and a batting average of .368 has, distanced the best effort of any Cardinal outfielder.

If Blades can join in the Cardinal outer defense, Manager Hornsby will offer three .300 hitters, with Southworth and Douthitt completing the trio. With the injured Blades probably not in the lineup, Hafey is expected to get the call with Holm next in line. The five St. Louis outfielders, with Blades included, although a doubtful starter, have an average of .299.

Ruth, Combs and Menzel, the regular Yankee outfield, with Paschall and Carlyle in reserve, boast an average of .313.

Ruth dominates the outfield talent involved in the series. His batting average of .368 includes 47 home runs and he has scored 125 runs and stolen 12 bases. Ruth will also enter his seventh world series. Southworth, who will patrol right field for the Cards, has had more limited world series experience, but has fought through many "run of the mine" games. His batting average of .319 enabled him in part to score 97 runs and he has made 15 home runs and has stolen as many bases.

Only in center field can the Cardinals offer a stronger offense on paper than the Yankees. Douthitt has hit .309 to .301 for Combs. The Cardinal scored 97 runs against 110 for Combs but his 22 stolen base dwarfed a total of eight for the Yankee Combs, scored an advantage in home runs eight to three.

If Hafey goes to left for St. Louis, New York with Menzel in the opposition will make a greater impression on the fans of the season's campaign. Menzel has compiled a batting average of .215 and scored 64 runs, with 19 of the runs unaided through the medium of circuit switches. He has stolen 15 bases. Hafey has a batting average of .270 with 34 runs scored, four home runs, and two stolen bases. He has played only 75 games.

Colgate Has a Powerful Eleven

Hamilton, N. Y., Sept. 28 (AP).—Memories of Eddie Tryon, best ace of the Colgate backfield last season and point scorer, are aiding a powerful Maroon eleven along a path that may lead to another undefeated season.

Captain Nick Mehler, whose defensive ability gave him a rating second only to that of the famous Eddie in the Colgate success last year, along with "Duke" Shaughnessy, Tryon's fullback companion, and George Brewer, the best punter the Maroon has had in several seasons, are rippling up lines in the best Tryon manner. Hamilton, in the first game last Saturday, met decisive defeat, 19 to 6.

Captain George Hansen, former Minnesota gridiron hero, who succeeded Dick Harlow at the Colgate helm this year, has had almost a first string holdover line to aid him while he installs his new system and runs for the first time the strategy of eastern coaches.

Williamson is holding down the center post, Schmidt and Plunkett flank him at guards. Mankat and Gray are back in the tackle battle, with Trumm and Commons padding all candidates for the wing positions. Gene Holweg, a speedy back, kept out of the game last season by injuries, will round out the backfield with Newell and Smith standing out among the remaining fullback runners.

Monday and Tuesday Dance.

There will be a moonlight and concert dance at the White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue, Monday evening, September 27. The music will be furnished by Zorba's Orchestra.
